Data Blitz

As in past years, we will again hold a Data Blitz session for attendees to share a small piece of their work to the PopHHC audience. The main benefit is that individuals gain experience with presentations and have a forum to introduce themselves to the larger audience of PopHHC members. It is not intended as a substitute for a full presentation, but rather a brief introduction and snippet of research. Details on Data Blitz guidelines can be found at

<https://docs.google.com/document/d/1yw1lQpoRtV00jlqGVYsvVAg4JhQe-S9m/edit>

Please note: Data Blitz slides are not subject to a competitive process.

Poster Session Abstract Submissions

We invite all attendees to submit abstracts for a virtual poster session, to be held during the scheduled conference (see agenda above). The Abstract submission site, including application instructions, the call for abstracts and submission details can be found at

Student Travel Awards Program

Student travel awards for 3 North American graduate students ($1500/each) and 2 non-North American graduate students ($3000/each) will be available to help defray the costs of travel and lodging. Awards will be dispensed at the end of conference. Award recipients will be required to present at the Virtual Poster Session and Data Blitz as well as participate in mentoring sessions. The Abstract submission site, including application instructions, the call for abstracts and submission details can be found at
